

BaselinePolicy

Matthew D. Dickerson

Founder and President, Baseline Policy

Introductory Bio

Matthew Dickerson is the founder and President of Baseline Policy, where he provides federal fiscal policy research, analysis, education, and advisory services.

Dickerson is recognized as a leading expert on fiscal policy issues, including the budget, appropriations, and economic opportunity.

He brings more than a dozen years of Capitol Hill experience as well as management roles at leading policy institutions.

Before founding Baseline Policy, Dickerson served as Director of Budget Policy at the Economic Policy Innovation Center (EPIC).

He was previously Senior Policy Advisor on the House Budget Committee, where he helped lead development of the fiscal year 2024 Reverse the Curse budget resolution. He was also Director of The Heritage Foundation's Grover M. Hermann Center for the Federal Budget.

Dickerson was Policy Director of the Republican Study Committee and served as Legislative Director for the late Congressman C.W. Bill Young, former Chairman of the House Appropriations Committee.

Dickerson has written hundreds of publications, testified before Congress, and advised lawmakers and stakeholders on the federal budget process.

BaselinePolicy

Background at a Glance

Selected Roles

- Founder and President, Baseline Policy.
- Director of Budget Policy, Economic Policy Innovation Center.
- Senior Policy Advisor, House Budget Committee.
- Director, Grover M. Hermann Center for the Federal Budget, The Heritage Foundation.

Policy and Research Work

- Federal budget process, appropriations, public finance, tax policy, and economic opportunity.
- Author of hundreds of publications, including research papers and commentaries that have been featured in outlets such as The Wall Street Journal.
- Frequently requested to testify before Congress and advise lawmakers and stakeholders.

Congressional Experience

- More than a dozen years on Capitol Hill.
- Senior roles at the Republican Study Committee, including Policy Director and Senior Policy Staff.
- Legislative Director for the late Rep. C.W. Bill Young, former House Appropriations Committee Chairman.

Education and Recognition

- B.A. in Government and History, College of William and Mary in Virginia.
- First-prize winner, America First Policy Institute Budget Process Reform Contest.